

New York to Beijing in two hours

Researchers in China say they have developed a hypersonic plane that hits speed of 5600 miles per hour in tests and could one day ferry passengers to any destination in the world in less than three hours. The aircraft has two sets of wings that increase lift and diminish turbulence . Hypersonic flight could also be a game changer , allowing bombers to reach a target in short time